For those who like to keep life on the low-maintenance side, the 2000 Sea Ray 215 Express Cruiser makes everything as simple as can be - from maintenance to piloting, to overnighting in complete comfort. There's plenty of room above and below to accommodate any activity imaginable, even if it's just doing nothing. Boarding the 215 Express Cruiser is safe and easy thanks to the wide integral swim platform with a handy transom door. In the cockpit, the port and starboard helm seats feature fiberglass seat bases with built-in storage compartments. The sound insulated engine compartment and seat are flanked by aft jump seats that easily convert to a lounge for sunning. No matter how much gear comes aboard the Sea Ray 215 Express Cruiser, there's plenty of space for it in the cockpit side panel storage compartments, complete with rod storage and ski racks. There's even more storage space in the floor in a removable bin. When it's necessary to access the foredeck, integral steps allow sure-footed movement via the walk-through windshield. Below, a lockable sliding door opens to reveal a roomy cabin with marine-grade carpet, 12V lighting, and abundant storage. Here, the galley makes life easy with a freshwater sink and standard pressurized water system. After dining on the V-berth table, it is easily stowed away so that two can rest in comfort on the upholstered V-bunk with filler cushions. There is also a portable head with privacy curtain. On the technical side, the Sea Ray 215 Express Cruiser has power steering, power tilt and trim, a switch panel with illuminated weatherproof rocker switches featuring ISO symbols, an automatic bilge pump, electric bilge blower, and audible engine alarms for oil and water. It is powered with a NEW Mercruiser 350 MPI with 20 HOURS , and the 20hr service completed. It is easily transported with the 2017 Continental dual axle trailer included. Has full cockpit cover.
